Military Memo and Walker Case Aren't Linked--Fulbright

Transcript of His Questions and Answers

Here is a transcript of the Question-and-Answer program which followed Senator Fulbright's speech at Hope High School Tuesday night:

Q — What do you have to say about a recent meeting in which a group went on record asking the banning of all imports, but also asked for an increase in U. S. exports?

A — If you prohibit imports you can forget about exports — for every country pays for one with the other. A return to isolationism and stagnation of world trade would be a disaster of the first magnitude, for both the United States and Arkansas in particular. Arkansas is primarily an export state. Cotton, rice, soybeans alone account for 500 million dollars a year — not counting livestock. Prohibiting of imports would be disastrous to the physical security of America. We do a heavy import business with Japan, which business finances one of our best customers. Japan is the largest single buyer of our cotton and soybeans. If you cut her off from us I see nothing but mutual disaster.

Q — What is your position in the General Walker case?

A — I have no position in the General Walker case. I did issue a memorandum regarding our military leaders engaging in political matters. The draft of this memorandum was prepared, and then Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara heard of it and called for a copy, and we discussed it, and the memorandum was issued. It merely stated what has always been the policy of this Republic — the separation of the military from politics, ever since the days of George Washington.

The General Walker case was something else — a Defense Department investigation running to 993 pages.

My memorandum has been grossly misrepresented. Possibly some senators who also are generals thought I aimed to muzzle them as senators — which is ridiculous. Also, I note they became generals after they became senators.

But getting back to my memorandum and its restatement of historic American policy, you can see that if we changed generals, as we do defense secretaries, with every change of administration, our national defense would be in bad shape.

Q — What is the outlook for the National Aid to Education Bill?

A — I admit to a bias in favor of education. I used to be a teacher — a professor — myself. The senate has four times passed an Education bill, but the house failed to concur. Is my position so radical? The late Senator Robert Taft, arch conservative, was the sponsor of the first Education bill I voted for, in 1948. The United States today is graduating only one-third as many engineers as the USSR. I hope to see us do better than that.

Q — Do you think continuance of the United Nations is essential to world peace?

A — If the UN were dissolved tomorrow I don't think war would follow immediately. But I do think the UN has a useful function as a forum for world discussion — sufficiently so to justify its continuance. Also, there is the further fact that nations meeting each other across the conference table learn more about one another, with an educational value.

Q — Do you think it is necessary to build a home bomb-shelter?

A — This is a controversial matter. All I can say is, I'm not building one myself.

Q — What foreign languages should Americans learn, to help us overseas?

A — It is difficult to answer this one. However, I would point out to you that in French colonial areas Arabic was the base language, and French was the second language. English now is coming out to the world scene to a limited extent. But there are so many areas in the world where we Americans are handicapped because of a national deficiency in language other than our own. In order to understand an enemy or friend, we need people who

NBC Records Senator Fulbright

A National Broadcasting Company sound camera and crew of three recorded Senator Fulbright's appearance at Hope High School Tuesday night, explaining the floodlights directed at both the stage and the audience. The crewmen, all from NBC's Chicago headquarters, were: Bruce Powell, camera; Harold Kluge, sound; and Fred Abel, electrician.

The sound-film, after editing, is expected to be shown on the Sander Van Oor Show, an NBC news presentation, at 6 p. m., Hope time Saturday, Dec. 2.

The crew told The Star they covered Fulbright at Hol Springs Monday and Hope Tuesday on orders from Chicago. The senator had no connection with the arrangement.

School Board Case Delay at DeWitt

DE WITT, Ark. (AP)—Trial of a taxpayers' suit against the DeWitt School Board was in recess until Thursday.

Chancellor Lawrence E. Dawson postponed the hearing late Tuesday, after the plaintiffs had finished their case and some defense testimony had been introduced, to give lawyers a chance to prepare and file additional legal pleadings.

Twelve residents filed the suit against the five-member school board and Supt. Harold R. Brotherton alleging questionable purchases and other irregularities in business transactions.

They asked that any improper practices be stopped and that the DeWitt School District be reimbursed for any money lost.

The defendants call the charges groundless.

In a ruling Tuesday, Dawson said that if it can be shown that the board bought items without competitive bidding, it will be up to the board to prove that the dealings were open and that fair prices were paid.

Dawson, who earlier had rejected two points in the plaintiffs' 11-count complaint as being too remote, also held that the plaintiffs had made prima facie cases on some other issues.

This means that it is now up to can talk their language. One of the greatest shortages in the United States is of teachers who know foreign languages.

Q — How good is our intelligence behind the Iron Curtain?

A — I don't know. If I did know, it would be classified information. But I don't know. Great countries have always spied on one another, whether in a cold war or a hot one — and even in peace. Everybody spies — but no one is willing to admit it.

Q — A four-star general is quoted as saying: "Don't blame the Russians for the state of the world today. Somebody else is to blame." What is your comment, Senator?

A — I charge the John Birch society with stirring up distrust and setting Americans against each other in a moment of world crisis. The Birch society is flooding our state with letters misrepresenting my memorandum to the military and reflecting on me personally.

I don't know about your quoted four-star general, but I am supported on this issue by a five-star general by the name of Eisenhower, who just the other day denounced super-patriots who are more patriotic than you or me — and he called their insinuations "rot." All this from a Republican — and you know I seldom quote Republicans.

The last thing on earth our country needs today is a revival of McCarthyism.

I don't mind you calling me Stupid.

But I do resent the imputation that I am disloyal.

These Birch letters are coming into Arkansas from California, Texas, and Louisiana. Why are these writers concerning themselves with a senate seat which the people of Arkansas are supposed to decide for themselves?

State Topics Discussed by Sen. Fulbright

If there ever was any doubt about the ability of the junior senator from Arkansas to take care of himself in an argument J. William Fulbright dispelled it Tuesday night at Hope High School auditorium where he appeared by invitation of the local post of Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a world-famous figure, spoke mostly on state topics in his preliminary 20-minute speech; but in the hour-long session of questions and answers which followed he covered the world and gave candid — and frequently salty — replies.

The senator was introduced by Thomas B. Fenwick, Jr., VFW post commander; and John L. Wilson, deputy prosecuting attorney who acted as moderator. On the platform with them were Talbot Fild, Jr., post adjutant, and the Rev. Clifton Bell, VFW state chaplain.

Fulbright paid tribute to the howl-bound Arkansas Razorbacks and said he was happy to remember that 40 years ago, in their less successful days, he played on the team.

He discussed the federal waterways program in the state and thanked the citizens for having finally resolved their differences of opinion and cleared the way for construction of Millwood Dam on Little River, beginning next year with an initial appropriation of 3 million dollars. He pointed out that while flood control was important the citizens had used rare good judgment in requiring also the provision of a future water supply for industry, agriculture and municipalities.

Concern for poultry

Senator Fulbright expressed concern for the poultry business — second largest industry in Arkansas — whose market price now is below the cost of production. "The industry is in distress," he said, "and my interest is as much personal as senatorial, because my father before me was in that business. The Arkansas poultry industry had its beginnings in my home district of northwest Arkansas. I am anxious to do all I can to help this distressed business today. I have my own views, of course, but I assure you I shall be guided by what the industry agrees will be beneficial."

Otherwise, he noted, Arkansas is economically in good shape. The increase in the state's per capita earnings runs above the average increase for the nation, he said.

Turning to politics, Fulbright said he had an answer for critics who charge that the state goes back only 50 cents of each dollar sent to Washington. He said this criticism bothered him, and he had an expert in the Library of Congress do some researching.

The answer for the year 1960, he said, was this: Arkansas sent 229 million tax dollars to Washington — and got back 463 million.

"Obviously, he continued, some of this fortunate picture is due to the fact that Arkansas, with less than 1 per cent of the nation's population, has four major chairmanships in the congress. Arkansas' voters have chosen to return veteran office-holders year after year, clinching chairmanships, he added, which explains why a group of the largest states, with a total population of 50 million, but with freshmen senators, have no chairmanships at all.

World Problem

Fulbright touched on this one aspect of world crisis in his preliminary speech:

"We Americans today recognize that we have become a part of the world — that we are no longer able to isolate ourselves from the

C of C Board Favors School Tax Increase

Tuesday, Dec. 5, voters in Hope School District 1-A, as well as the rest of the county, go to the polls to vote on two board members both unopposed and a member of the County Board at large and a tax increase.

This year the school board is seeking a tax increase of five mills, from 35 to 40 mills. This increased tax Monday got backing from the Hope Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors.

With 10 of its 15 members present the Chamber Board passed a resolution endorsing the proposed increase.

Whereas, the needs of the Hope Public Schools have been made known to the citizens of Hope, and

Whereas, the revenues for the operation, maintenance and additions to the present facilities are not sufficient under the present millage rate, and

Whereas, the said schools stand to lose their National Rating as well as other gains made over the past years that are vital to the graduates of our High Schools, and

Whereas, the School Board has unanimously approved a millage increase of 5 mills for the purpose of maintaining the present status of the Hope School System now,

Therefore, we as members of the Board of Directors of the Hope Chamber of Commerce and citizens of Hope, do hereby unanimously approve the above millage increase and urge all citizens of Hope to exercise their rights by going to the polls on Tuesday, December 5, 1961 and cast their vote, whether they be for or against this proposal.

Passed this 27th day of November 1961.

White Co. Voters Reject Hospital

SEARCY, Ark. (AP) — White County voters apparently have rejected proposals to build a county hospital and levy a 3 1-2-mill tax to pay for the construction.

Unofficial returns with only one box not reported showed a margin of 424 voters against the proposed $900,000 bond issue for the hospital.

Voters for the bond issue numbered 2,455. Voting against it were 2,879.

Returns from 31 of 47 precincts showed 2,342 voting for the tax and 2,545 voting against it.

world and its problems. Perhaps we forget one thing, however. As late as 1939 we had on our law books a Neutrality Act. But we tend to be resentful of other nations that choose to be neutral today.

"I don't see that as a great threat to our Free World. I haven't the slightest doubt that the Free World has power and resources far beyond those of the Communist world, but we must recognize that we do have a problem in achieving unity among ourselves on the question of how to curb the expansionist-minded Soviet."

U. S. SENATOR J. WILLIAM FULBRIGHT, CENTER, WHO spoke at Hope High School auditorium Tuesday night under the auspices of the local post of Veterans of Foreign Wars, was welcomed to the city by Deputy Prosecuting Attorney John L. Wilson, Jr., left, and Thomas B. Fenwick, Jr., VFW post commander. Mr. Fenwick introduced Senator Fulbright, and Mr. Wilson was moderator during the question-and-answer program.

9th District Chancellor Dies Today

CLARKSVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Chancellor George O. Patterson, 59, of the 9th District, died at a Fort Smith hospital today.

He had been ill for several months.

Patterson, a native and lifelong resident of Clarksville, first was elected chancellor in 1950.

He took office in 1951 and served until his final illness.

He was a graduate of the College of the Ozarks here and had been a member of its board of trustees for approximately 20 years.

He also attended Washington and Lee Law School at Lexington, Va.

Before becoming chancellor, he had been Clarksville city attorney, a deputy prosecuting attorney and a federal referee in bankruptcy.

He was an elder in the Presbyterian Church.

Survivors include his widow; two daughters, Mrs. Robert Pine of Little Rock and Mrs. Eugene Harris of Clarksville; a brother, Edward H. Patterson, also a Clarksville attorney, and three grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Recently John G. Rye of Russellville served as chancellor for 30 days as a replacement for Patterson after an appointment of Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

Since this appointment expired, Chancellor Paul X. Williams of Booneville has been handling Patterson's district in addition to his own.

Faubus will appoint a successor to Patterson.

The 9th Chancery District is composed of Conway, Faulkner, Johnson and Pope Counties.

May Restrict Workers From Mexico

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several moves are under way to restrict the movement of Mexican workers into the United States.

The U.S. Labor Department has called a hearing here Dec. 8 to obtain advice and suggestions on admittance of Mexican labor workers.

Special attention is to be directed to a provision of law permitting the department to ban Mexican recruiting if it is found to affect adversely the wages and working conditions of domestic agricultural workers.

Also, the Texas State AFL-CIO has filed a federal court suit here to enjoin the Justice Department and Immigration Service from permitting Mexican workers to commute regularly from their homes to U.S. jobs.

President Kennedy's administration lost an attempt earlier this year to get Congress to amend the Mexican farm worker import law to require payment of wages to Mexicans substantially the same as the wage levels paid to domestic farm labor.

Kennedy then signed with reluctance a two-year extension of the Mexican farm labor law. It, now will run to Dec. 31, 1963. But the President said that Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg had assured him every lawful means would be used to prescribe recruitment standards to protect U.S. farm employees.

This apparently is what Goldberg intends to make clear at the Dec. 8 hearing.

Officials announced that the Cape Canaveral tracking facility made contact with the descending capsule at 1:16 p. m. and all indications were that Enos was in good condition.

Chimp Circles the Globe Twice, U.S. to Send Man Soon

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Space chimp Enos, his intended two-orbit trip cut to two because of trouble with capsule systems, parachuted safely into the Atlantic 500 miles southeast of Bermuda today.

Two destroyers the Stomies and the Compton, steamed toward the landing area as several aircraft took up the search for the capsule which was brought down after scientists decided to terminate the flight.

The capsule landed at 1:20 p. m. EST, three hours and 21 minutes after it rode an Atlas rocket into the sky from Cape Canaveral at 10:07 a. m.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported radio signals from the capsule indicated the chimp was in good condition when he landed.

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. has been selected for America's first manned orbital flight, the Norfolk Ledger-Star said it was told by informed Air Force sources today.

The newspaper quoted the sources as saying the attempt to place a man in orbit has been scheduled tentatively for Dec. 29.

A P-5M search aircraft sighted the capsule as it parachuted toward the water and seven minutes after the capsule hit, the plane reported that it was floating upright.

An announcement from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at 1:10 p. m. said that "as the spacecraft traveled across the Pacific Ocean near the end of its second orbit, stations detected increased inverter temperature and an altitude control action other than nominal."

The announcement said a signal was sent to reset the satellite clock in the cockpit so that it would fire the reverse rockets which would slow the orbital speed from 17,500 miles an hour so that the capsule would ease gradually across the southern United States to the landing.

The clock fired the rockets at 1:08 p. m.

A fleet of recovery ships is in the area south of Bermuda. The ships had been stationed there for just such an event.

When the decision was made to bring the capsule down, the chimp reportedly still was in excellent condition and performing his tasks, receiving banana pellets and sips of water as his reward.

There was no further explanation from NASA on just how the inverter and controls were affected.

An inverter is a device used to switch electrical current from AC to DC to run certain spacecraft systems. This apparently was overheated.

The altitude control system relies on electronic detectors to determine whether the spacecraft is on the proper course.

If it is not, signals are sent to hydrogen peroxide-driven jets on the side of the capsule. The jet action returns it to the proper course.

Officials announced that the Cape Canaveral tracking facility made contact with the descending capsule at 1:16 p. m. and all indications were that Enos was in good condition.

Reserves May Get Out in Less Than Year

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy today told men called into military service they may get out of uniform within less than a year.

Urging them not to grumble in the meantime, he said they provide the strength to spare the United States a choice "between humiliation and a holocaust."

Somewhat heatedly, Kennedy took note at a news conference of newspaper stories reporting discomforts and possible shortcomings in equipment and training programs for reservists and National Guardsmen summoned to service as a result of the East-West crisis over Berlin.

"The President said his administration—contrary to some speculation—never intended to hold men called up for more than a year."

Kennedy also observed that Congress approve the callup which the administration initiated last summer.

The hope, he said, is to let them out before the end of the 12 month period for which they were originally ordered to service.

$100,000 Suit Is Dropped

MARION, Ark. (AP) — Emmett E. Miller of West Memphis today dropped a $100,000 damage suit he filed Nov. 3 against the Arkansas Democrat.

The suit, which had alleged libel, was dismissed in Circuit Court here on Miller's motion.

The suit was an aftermath of an alleged bomb attempt at Phillips Smith College for Negroes in Little Rock in July, 1960.

Federal charges were lodged against Miller, a 44-year-old accountant, and two other men. These were dropped later.

A state charge then was filed against Miller and this too was dropped eventually.

Miller had charged in his suit that he was libeled by Democrat articles about the bombing investigation.

Strike Threat in Dominican Government

By ROBERT BERNELLEX

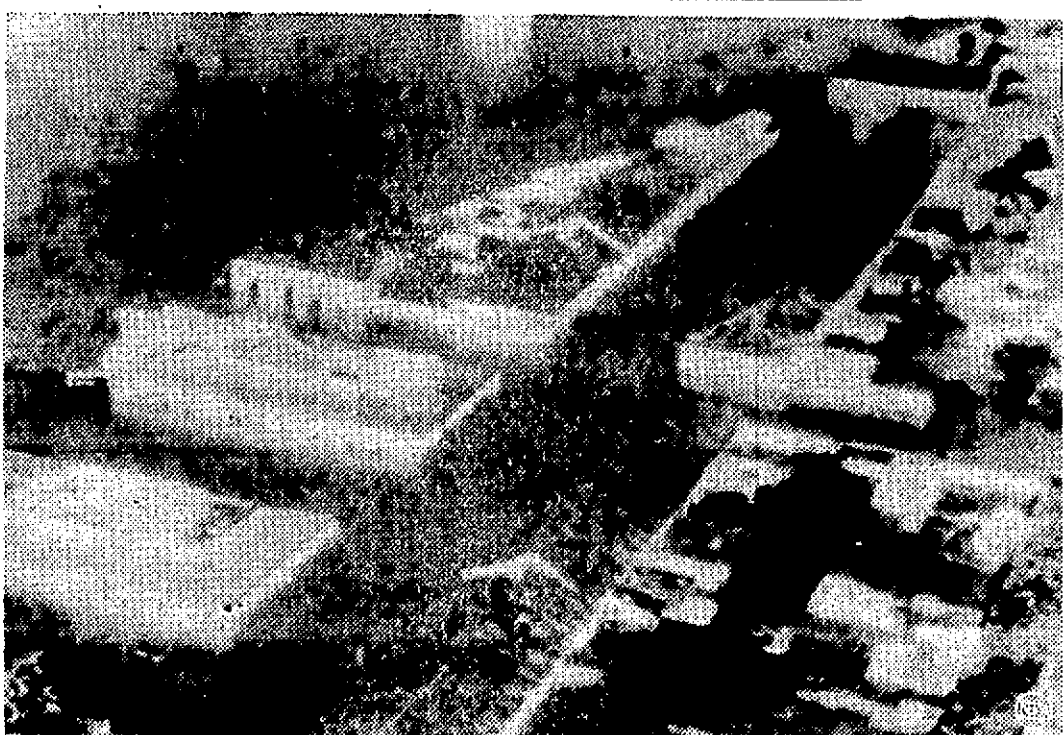

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Opposition leaders, backed by a threatened general strike, demanded Monday night that President Joaquin Balaguer accept a provisional government immediately in a power shift that reportedly would hand the presidency to the opposition National Civic Union.

According to purported copies of the Civic Union's demand, the presidency would go to Viriato A. Fiallo, head of the party.

Under the proposal, Balaguer would appoint Fiallo secretary of state for the armed forces, temporarily replacing Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Echavarria, who would become air force chief of staff. Balaguer would then resign and Fiallo, next in line of succession, would assume the presidency. Rodriguez Echavarria, who foiled two Trujillo brothers' plans for a coup 10 days ago, then would

A seven-man junta, including a military member, then would assume executive and legislative functions. Congress would be dissolved and the junta would remain in power until general elections were called.

Balaguer's whereabouts were not known Monday night. The presidential palace was dark. Support mounted for the first general strike called in the Dominican Republic since the late dictator Rafael Trujillo took control more than three decades ago.

The strike was called by the lawyers' association to back the opposition demand. More and more groups, including the important sugar workers, announced their support.

Be Frank, Says Mr. Johnson

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson today called on those demanding total victory in the cold war to say frankly whether "they mean we should declare war against the Soviet Union."

It was an obvious challenge to Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., although Johnson did not refer to him by name.

Goldwater, a spokesman for conservatives, has urged President Kennedy to make victory in the cold war the objective of American policy. He said the fight against communism cannot be won unless such a goal is set.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the Council on World Affairs, Johnson said he was not aware that the Kennedy administration or any preceding administration has been committed to defeat.

"If the adherents of this 'new policy' mean we should declare war against the Soviet Union, let them state their case fully and frankly to the American people," Johnson said.

Man Killed in Car Accident

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — A Kessler Air Force Base serviceman was killed early today when his car smashed into a concrete bridge abutment on U.S. 49 about 8 miles south of here.

Highway Patrol officers identified the victim as Airman 3C Darrell Edward Fisher, 20, of Memphis.

Figures Army Will Take the Navy Saturday

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—There is an old Chinese proverb that they win live by the crystal ball must develop a profound liking for shattered glass. That's what happened to the 1961 ball after forecasting triumphs last weekend by Minnesota over Wisconsin and Michigan over Ohio State. Last week's total figures, 35 right, 8 wrong, .814 average.

This week's final whirl by the hat-pin method:

Army over Navy: Dick Eckert, now completely healed, is back to direct the cadet attack. In addition, there is just enough yelping by the military wolves about Dale Hall's coaching that Army's players will try even harder than usual.

Alabama over Auburn: The man who owns the tape and bandage concession in the state of Alabama will be a millionaire after this skirmish.

Miami over Florida: A year ago Florida could do no wrong. This year lady luck keeps looking the other way.

Mississippi over Mississippi State: It would be a major miracle if the Rebels were derailed at this late stage.

Georgia Tech over Georgia: Stan (the Man) Gann is healthy and that means woe for the toothless Georgia Bulldogs.

Notre Dame over Duke: The Irish, who appeared so inept last week, close out their season with a polished performance.

Holy Cross over Boston College: Eddie Anderson closes his 36th season as head coach with a triumph. The Crusaders have too much speed.

Texas Christian over Southern Methodist: The season can't end soon enough for the much battered Mustangs.

Colorado over Air Force: This is growing into a Harvard-Yale feud but this year the Buffs are too strong for the Flyers.

Oklahoma over Oklahoma State: Since mid-season, the Sooners have knocked off Missouri and Army and should close the season with a five-game winning streak.

North Carolina over Virginia: A pair of sea-saw teams. It is North Carolina's turn to be up this time.

Texas Tech over West Texas State: Only because the Raiders came from the stronger league.

Tennessee over Vanderbilt: Maiton Faircloth closes out a spectacular sophomore season.

Houston over Oregon State: Coach Hal Lahar bids Houston adieu with an upset victory.

Rice over Baylor: Rice gets a Bluebonnet Bowl bid with this victory.

Notre Dame Turns Down Play Ruling

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame turned thumbs down on a ruling that the Irish defeat Syracuse 17-15 on an illegal play.

Gen. Bob Neyland of the NCAA rules committee Tuesday said the Irish victory over Syracuse came on an illegal play in the game played Nov. 18.

However, Rev. Edmund C. M. Joyce, Notre Dame vice president, refused to accept the verdict and asked for judgement by "a competent board."

On the final play of the controversial game, Notre Dame's Joe Perkowski attempted a field goal. The officials ruled the kicker had been roughed, penalized Syracuse 15 yards and gave Notre Dame another chance at a field goal.

Perkowski's second attempt was good, although no time remained on the field, and Notre Dame turned a 15-14 loss into a 17-15 victory on the 41-yard field goal.

Neyland, backed by Bill Reed, commissioner of the Big Ten and Asa Bushnell of the Eastern College Athletic Conference, ruled the officials erred in giving Notre Dame another attempt and that Syracuse actually won the game.

But the Irish are in no mood to forfeit the game. Father Joyce Tuesday released a statement in which he quoted the rules to favor Notre Dame's stand and then asked to have the matter thoroughly "adjudicated by a competent board."

Statistical Stars in Conference

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — James Saxton of Texas and Sonny Gibbs of Texas Christian appear to have clinched the ball-carrying and total offense championships of Southwestern Conference football but all other categories hang in the balance with final games this week.

Saxton finished the season last week when he boosted his rushing total to 846 yards, best in the league since 1955. Teammate Jerry Cook is second with 527 yards and Lance Alworth of Arkansas is third with 516. All have finished the campaign.

Gibbs has rolled up 1034 yards on 179 plays and is 142 yards ahead of second place Saxton and 340 better than third place Jerry Rhome of Southern Methodist, who still has a game to play.

Gibbs, whose team meets Southern Methodist Saturday, is close to Rhome, the passing leader. Rhome has completed 67 for 598 yards. Gibbs has 59 completions for 871.

Buddy Eals of Texas Christian and Bob Witucki of Texas Tech are tied for the lead in passing with 25 catches each. Both have a game left.

Babe Craig of Texas A&M leads the punters with a 38.9-yard average but can be overtaken by Garry Thomas of Texas Christian, who is 38.0.

Alworth leads the punt returners with a 12.0 average but Bill Worley of Texas Tech, who is 11.0, might nip the Arkansas star.

Jim Murphy of Texas A&M leads the kickoff returners with a 23.9 average but can lose the essay to win it. Ronnie Bull of Baylor has a good day against Baylor Saturday. Wayt is 23.1 and is tied with Alworth for second.

The scoring championship still is up in the air. Cook and Saxton lead with 56 points each but Blume has 54 and a game in which to get the three points necessary to win it. Ronnie Bull of Baylor also still is in the running. He has 48 points.

Confederate Money Given to Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK (AP) —Harry Solmson saved his Confederate money boys, and now he's giving it to the state of Arkansas.

The state won't try to spend it, but it will be displayed at the old State House in Little Rock.

Solmson's collection of Confederate money is considered one of the finest in the world. It may be the most complete collection, and it's valued at $50,000.

It is an almost complete representation of thousands of bills and variations issued by the Confederate States of America and the individual states and cities.

Solmson is a native of Little Rock and executive vice president of a Memphis pharmaceutical firm.

He began collecting confederate money about 25 years ago. He decided to give it to the public for display, and Dr. John L. Ferguson, executive secretary of the Arkansas History Commission, wrote him to see if it might be located in Arkansas.

Solmson is dedicating the collection to his native state in memory of his grandfather, the late Henry W. Myer of Camden, who served in Company I of the 18th Arkansas Infantry Regiment during the Civil War.

The collection even includes bills issued by private firms and some post-war carpetbag notes.

The first part of the collection was received Monday by Ferguson. It consists of 476 bills issued by states and cities.

Ohio State Has Turned Down Rose Bowl

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Ohio State had a chance to play in the Rose Bowl and refused it, but UCLA probably will meet a Big Ten opponent in Pasadena New Year's Day.

Minnesota, Michigan State and Purdue presumably are the three opponents the Big Five Conference is considering. That may not necessarily be the order of preference but it is significant that Minnesota beat both Michigan State and Purdue.

Tom Hamilton, commissioner of the Big Five, said that five teams were being considered, Ohio State among them; that four teams remain, three of them from the Big Ten.

Athletic director Ike Armstrong of Minnesota said his school felt Ohio State would accept the Rose Bowl opportunity, but "I've always been in favor of the Rose Bowl and I see no reason why we would not want to go back, if invited."

Minnesota's coach, Murray Warmath, said he wanted to return to Pasadena so the team could "redeem itself for the loss to Wisconsin and have an opportunity to make up for our disappointment against Washington in the Rose Bowl last January."

Michigan State's coach, Duffy Daugherty, highly popular in Southern California, said his school always has gone on record in favor of the Rose Bowl.

"We've enjoyed wonderful relationships with the west coast," said Daugherty, "both in the Rose Bowl and out. If the honor were extended we'd enjoy going again."

Athletic director Biggie Munn added: "If we get the bid we'll call the fastest meeting of our athletic council on record to accept it."

Coach Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue: "We certainly would like to play off our tie with UCLA (27-27 last year and 0-0 in 1959). Purdue's athletic director, Red Mackey said Purdue would welcome an invitation to Pasadena and that it would be "a deserved tribute to a great team and coaching staff." Purdue never has played in the Rose Bowl.

Two Pointers Are Leading Dog Trials

BOONEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The handling by John S. Gates of Leesburg, Ga., of two white and liver pointers Tuesday proved effective and the dogs were expected to qualify for the finals of the Southwestern Birddog Championships here Friday.

B. McCall's War Storm flushed two coveys and blazed to a spectacular finish while Hurricane, owned by Byron Braswell and Dr. Herbert Vaughan of Shreveport, La., also turned in a fine showing.

Wonsut, a white and black setter owned by Howard Sykes of Carthage, Mo., and handled by Marshal Loftin of Norwood, La., was qualifying strongly when he was halted by ear trouble.

Satilla Ace Spades has already qualified.

Things Not Much Better for Hawks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Things are getting to such a state with the St. Louis Hawks, the erstwhile perennial Western champions in the National Basketball Association, that even the Philadelphia Warriors are beating them at St. Louis.

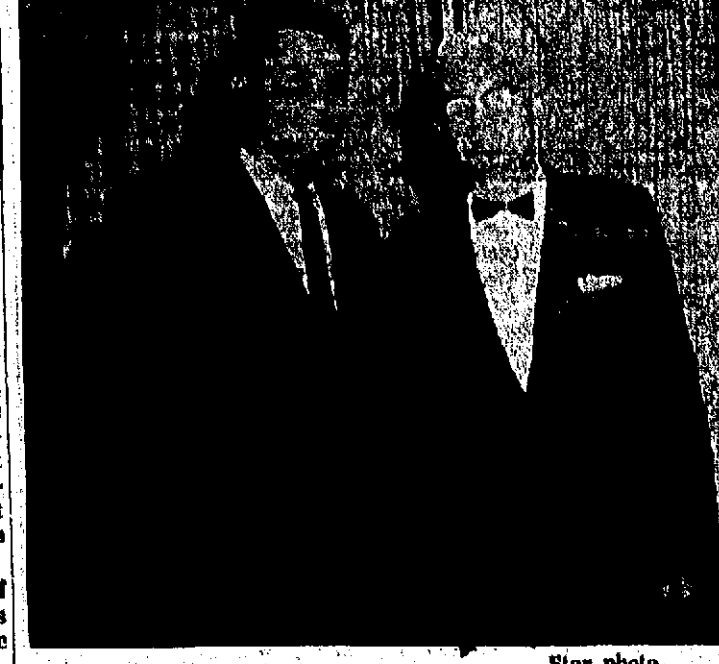

The Warriors, with 7-foot-1 Will Chamberlain, beat many a team but usually not St. Louis at St. Louis. Until Tuesday night, when the Warriors scored a 121-111 victory, the Hawks hadn't lost to the Warriors in St. Louis in 12 games going back to March 1, 1958.

The loss was the 13th in 20 games for the Hawks and their fourth in five games since Fuzzy Levane, one of their many ex-coaches, succeeded ex-coach Paul Seymour.

Only another loss for the Los Angeles Lakers, their third in a row, kept the Hawks from slipping further than 7½ games away from first place in the Western chase they have won the last five years. The Lakers lost the opener of a St. Louis doubleheader to Syracuse, 121-111—same score as the second game—despite a 48-point outburst by Army-bound Elgin Baylor.

In other NBA action, Boston's Eastern leaders made it 14-2 with CONWAY, Ark. (AP) —Hendrix defeated Henderson 68 to 65 while State Teachers bent Arkansas College 63 to 56 Tuesday night in an Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference basketball twinbill.

Larry Fincher led Hendrix scorers with 18 points while Bryan passed Henderson with 20.

The victory was the second in a row for Hendrix in its new gymnasium.

Howard Lamb led the Teachers in scoring with 16. Jim Bryan netted 21 for the losing Arkansas College squad.

East Texas Licks Southern State

MAGNOLIA, Ark. (AP) —Jackie Putman of Van Buren, Ark., scored 15 points to lead East Texas pass Southern State 60 to 55 in a non-conference basketball game Tuesday night.

Ellis Landrus scored 15 for Southern State.

Says Old Miss Would Play Hogs

MEMPHIS (AP) — Claude M. (Tad) Smith, athletic director at the University of Mississippi, said Monday Ole Miss is ready to resume its football series with Arkansas at any time.

"We've got a place waiting for them (the Razorbacks) in 1962 if they want it," Smith told the Memphis Quarterback Club. "I'd sure hate to see that annual rivalry drop by the wayside."

Smith said he wanted it understood that Arkansas, not Ole Miss, was responsible for ending the series, which finished with the Rebels' 16-0 victory this year.

At Fayetteville, Ark., John Barnhill, UA athletic director, first declined to comment on Smith's statement, except to say, "Our schedule is filled for 1962." Barnhill then added, "I think the series will eventually be resumed but it needs cooling off a bit."

Miss Rozanne Freeman served as her sister as maid of honor and Miss Marilyn Scottberg of Chicago, was the bridesmaid. Lt. Frank Asaf of Valdosta, Ga., served as best man. Colbert Barntine of Nashville was groomsmen. Winston Duke ushered.

After a coming-out party in Chicago, and a short trip, the couple will be at home at 1306 Legene, Valdosta, Ga., where the bride is a jet pilot instructor at Moody Air Force Base.

After seven years of marriage, endless separations, inconveniences and moving from pillar to post, I've called a halt.

In a few months I'll drive from Massachusetts to San Diego with the children, while my husband goes aboard his ship. I love him as much as anyone and feel sorry for him, myself and the kids, but I'm waking up! From now on I intend to stay in one place and make a life of my own.

As a sailor, my husband has his work, foreign travels and buddies. But, by now, I know, that as a family, we're only a cog in a wheel where the Navy is concerned.

I'm not going to fight the system. Granted it's an unnatural life but when my man's home we more than make up for it. And when he's away, I write him every day. A Navy wife has to be father and mother to the kids, so my advice is don't have large families. It's no picnic. —Lonely too.

Dear Mrs. Williams: It is gratifying to receive a letter like yours, after hearing from so many parents and children, who take the opposite point of view.

Dear Helen: While not always agreeing, I certainly go along with you on the controversy over women in shorts. I find a man will give a second glance at any woman in shorts even if she looks like the back of a bus, but tell me why pregnant women delight in shorts?

Surely a skirt is more comfortable, attractive and neater. Why must women ape men, when their, here lies in their femininity? In my opinion, there is a time and place for everything, including shorts. —Mrs. M. Babiak, Edmonton, Alberta

Dear Mrs. Babiak: Maternity wear designers tell me that shorts are okay on mothers-to-be, provided the accompanying blouse is well-designed. They can talk all they want but I still don't agree. Perhaps because the average woman, pregnant or not, looks so God-awful in them. Expectant mothers claim shorts and slacks are easier to walk in. I say, okay for the house, but not the street.

Dear Helen: You've printed quite a few letters lately from Navy wives. I'm a Navy wife too.

Pleasure to Talk to This Child Star

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A fellow journalist, obviously scared and defeated by too many interviews with monster-type child stars of stage, screen and television, recently came out—in print—strongly advocating the replacement of child actors with adult midgets.

This reporter, too, has had some disconcerting moments with pint-size talent. It is a pleasure, therefore, to report that Miss Lori Martin, age 14 and star of NBC's "National Velvet" television series, is a well-mannered, polite and friendly young lady, even if she does have the poise of a Back Bay dowager and is permitted to use discreet make-up (including mascara and eye shadow) during personal appearance tours.

Lori, accompanied by her father, Russell Menzor, her teacher, and her toy poodle, Cricket, has been spending a busy few days in New York, riding a horse in two department store holiday parades and popping up on some day-time TV shows to plug her series.

But although Lori is a very grown-up girl for her years, she has a real age-14 problem: no dates.

"Not until she's 16," said her father firmly.

Lori suffered a radical name change when she was picked from 1,000 candidates for the series. She was born Dawn Menzor. The Menzor became Martin. Then Dawn disappeared. "They thought there were too many strippers and people like that using the name," explained her father.

The youngster's acting career started when she was 7—and was a family decision.

"She kept having fainting spells at school," her father said. "The nuns were worried, but her mother noticed that she was faking. So we decided to let her be an actress because we felt she was just playing for attention and she'd get it."

After seven years of marriage, endless separations, inconveniences and moving from pillar to post, I've called a halt.

Shows What Word Jazz Use to Mean

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Chicago style" they called it, meaning the kind of music that blew out of the Windy City in the raucous, boozing days of the 1920s. Sunday night, NBC's "Show of the Week" did a good job of showing us what the word jazz used to mean.

They assembled a lot of old-time musicians who were there—recreate the roaring Twenties in Chicago. When they couldn't produce the artists, they turned to old pieces of film.

Actually, the film clips were more in the mood and certainly more kind than the live-on-tape reconstruction of Chicago-style music making. There was a bit with Bessie Smith, with the voice like a cello, singing a blues song. Mamie Smith shouting a comedy song. And a slim young trumpet player with a huge white-toothed grin named Louis Armstrong.

But when the musicians were reassembled to relive the good old days, we saw a number of middle-aged, portly men and women, some with hair powdered with snow, others balding and bald. The ladies had verve as they sang—but, oh my, they shouldn't have tried to dance.

Gary Moore was host and guide on the trip backwards, four decades and it was all most enjoyable, except everyone looked so old. It was perhaps a sharp reminder that we're getting along too.

Ernie Kovacs may not always be on target with his humor, but you've got to give him credit. He'd rather die than be caught telling a "something funny happened to me on the way to the studio" joke.

Friday night Kovacs was on the ABC screen for a solid 30 minutes (entertainment plus very entertaining commercials) and never once told a joke. As a matter of fact, he didn't speak a word and neither did anyone else. But there were plenty of gags—crazy, imaginative ones—and lots of sound effects and music.

Kovacs may be an acquired taste, like rutabagas, but once you acquire it, you find him irresistible.

NBC started a three-part series of programs on space flight Friday night, repeating a lot of material showing rocket launchings most of us had seen before, but explaining the purpose and meaning of the great adventure. This series is called "Crossing the Threshold" and before it is finished a lot of us are going to stop asking, "Why try to go to the moon when we've got trouble enough right here?" The Soviet space flight film shown may have been a TV scoop but it didn't show us very much.

The early Colonial settlers made pumpkin soup, stew, pudding, bread and griddle cakes, as well as pie.

Rockefeller Quits Search for His Son

By ROBERT MYERS

HOLLANDIA, Dutch New Guinea (AP)—New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller today abandoned his fruitless personal search for his youngest son Michael in the treacherous New Guinea jungle and began the long, sad journey home.

"The chances of finding Mike are greatly diminished," Rockefeller told newsmen as he left the search headquarters in Merapke, on the south coast of Dutch New Guinea.

"A miracle could happen and perhaps it will. But we must be realistic. The hope is very small," the governor said.

The governor's 23-year-old son has been missing since his native catamaran raft capsized off the swampy jungle south coast area and he tried to swim to the shore 3 1/2 miles away on Nov. 19. A Dutch companion stayed with the overturned raft and was rescued the next day.

Although Rockefeller left for the United States, the hunt for his son will continue. Australian helicopters planned another day of criss-crossing the 1,000-square-mile search area, and ground parties of Papuan natives and Dutch officials will comb the jungle for at least another month, checking isolated native villages in the chance that the youth lies hurt or ill in one of them.

The search for young Rockefeller was the biggest ever made in New Guinea, enlisting between 6,000 and 7,000 persons on the ground, ships of the Dutch navy at sea and Dutch, Australian and private planes.

The only clue found was a red gasoline can found from an outboard motor, fished from the sea 120 miles south of the New Guinea coast.

Michael had used two such cans as an improvised life buoy when he started for the shore, and his Dutch companion, Dr. R. S. Wasing, said he was 90 per cent certain the recovered can was Michael's. But Dutch officials said its finding was not proof that Michael had drowned, that he could have left it on the beach and the tide could have carried it back to sea.

The governor and Michael's twin sister, Mary Strawbridge, flew from Merapke to Hollandia on the first leg of their journey. KLM, the Dutch airline, diverted its Tokyo to Manila to Amsterdam flight to Biak Island, off the coast of New Guinea, to pick up the Rockefeller party.

The governor was expected to arrive in New York at 8:30 p.m.

Oldest Teacher Honored

Mrs. Gus Haynes, one of the most active senior citizens of Hope, was honored Sunday at First Baptist Church where she has been a Sunday School teacher for more than 50 continuous years.

On the left is Perry Moses, church moderator, as he presents Mrs. Haynes with a Bible, for her long and outstanding work and devoted loyalty.

The presentation ceremony came as a "surprise" to Mrs. Haynes. She seemed somewhat overwhelmed for a moment. But she reacts quickly to any occasion, and probably would have taken the pulpit for an acceptance speech had it not been for a tight Sunday morning speaking schedule.

The Sunday School teaching career of Mrs. Haynes actually stretches past the 60-year mark, but there were some interruptions during the early years to raise a family.

She is a close student of the Bible and Baptist doctrine. On a moment's notice she can tell you whether it was Matthew, Mark, Luke, John or some other Bible character.

She is also a close observer of pastors and their mannerisms in the pulpit. She can tell you if they rock on their heels, smack their lips too much, or gaze toward the ceiling.

She knows more of the history of First Baptist Church than any other living person. Often she has been called on for information which she can readily recall from memory.

Now at the age of 83, she rarely misses a single service. She has corrected 20-20 vision. She has been driving an automobile since the early days of their invention, and continues to do so.

But there is one incident of her many years of vigorous activity that has brought her dismay and sadness. That occurred about two years ago.

She was "thrashing" pecans from a tree in her yard and felt. She was slightly "shook up", but the near mishap caused the Haynes family to "put their foot down".

To her they said tersely: "No more tree-climbing at your age!" But as the years go by, she has become more charming, graceful, has a good sense of humor, and to her many friends in Hope she has become known as "Mrs. First Baptist".

Troops Skirmish Near Kapanga

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP)—National Congolese troops and Katanga forces skirmished over the weekend near Kapanga on the south Kasai border, the Elisabethville radio said today.

Reliable military sources here said only a few troops were involved in the clash when Congo soldiers raided across the border for food and other supplies.

President Moise Tshombe told a cheering crowd of 5,000 Africans and a handful of whites Sunday that Katanga must gird for war. He threatened a scorched-earth program to destroy Katanga's rich copper and cobalt mines if any attempt is made by the United Nations or central Congo government to end the province's self-proclaimed independence.

Bus Drivers Tests

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The 3,300 school bus drivers in Arkansas will attend eight state training sessions in the first two weeks in December. Latest safety regulations, rules, laws and policies governing school bus operation will be discussed.

People Tell JFK What's on Minds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The people are telling President Kennedy what's on their minds—and also telling him off a bit—in stacks of oversize blue postcards piling up at the White House.

They praise him warmly or criticize him on his administration harshly. They talk about socialism, communism, nuclear tests, a balanced budget, fallout shelters, Caroline, racial and religious intolerance.

More than anything else, they are strongly for or strongly against medical care for the aged, financed through the Social Security System.

These blue cards are special ones, already addressed to Kennedy at the White House and even carrying the salutation "Dear Mr. President."

They were on hand for anyone who wanted to pick them up at the series of regional conferences on the same machine. Five were just staged in 12 cities under government auspices. Cabinet members and squads of other top-rank administration officials made the circuit, delivering speeches, taking part in panels, answering questions.

The objective, the administration said, was to tell the people about the record of Congress and the administration and to obtain their views.

A survey of the first 200 cards contained contributions from eight cities: Chicago, St. Louis, Nashville, Denver, Detroit, Cleveland, New York and Philadelphia.

The one topic that stands out in the first communications is medical care for the aged. On a numerical count, the number of cards expressing opinions on this issue runs about 5 to 4 against such care under the Social Security financing plan the administration recommends.

But the figures don't give a complete picture.

Nearly half the total cards received are from St. Louis. And more than half of the St. Louis cards are from doctors.

All told, St. Louis had checked in with 87 cards, 49 from physicians. All 49 were typed, all looked as if the typing was done from individual doctors and 44 were in pairs—each pair of cards identically worded but each signed by a different doctor. From all cities, 52 cards opposed the medical care program, 44 approved it.

While the doctors lined up against the medical care program, a number of nurses told Kennedy they are "for it."

Some of the doctors called the plan "socialized medicine."

But a Philadelphia woman told Kennedy: "I am hoping that you will help pass the bill on socialized medicine."

The people take sides, too, on whether the regional conferences were good or bad. More seem to like the idea than to dislike it, on the basis of the first 200 cards that came in. They ran about 3 to 1 in favor of the conferences.

Several cards commented favorably on the way the President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert S. Kennedy, had handled himself at conferences. A Pennsylvania woman, in red and black typing, put her views on this in rhyme that proposed a new song: "Hail to the Chief—and to the Chief's Brother."

People who attended the Nashville conference came up with some matters nobody else mentioned. One man advised Kennedy to "integrate our country into the Common Market."

Crime Fight Being Felt, Robert Says

BOSTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said Monday a correlated anti-crime drive, with new legal weapons, already has been felt by the underworld but that four or five years may be required to demonstrate its overall effectiveness.

He said new national legislation and the Department of Justice's drive on top racketeers has already forced "criminals to revise their operations, at least temporarily."

In big-time gambling, he said, three major betting wire services in Minneapolis, Arkansas and New Orleans have been closed.

The nation's top law-enforcement officer said anti-crime legislation adopted in the last session of Congress is "the most extensive of its kind since 1934, and has given the FBI the tools to attack organized gamblers and other vice operators."

"This is a first step," he commented, and pointed out that the new statutes cover interstate travel by anyone in the interest of an illegal enterprise as well as transmitting wagering information interstate, or shipping gambling paraphernalia across state lines.

Student Loan Board to Meet

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Student Loan Board will hold its first meeting here Thursday to deal with developing the style of loan applications and the mechanics of processing such requests. The board will have $35,000 initially available to loan eligible students. The meeting will be held in the office of Education Commissioner Arch Ford.

He said that racketeering could not flourish without the cooperation and tolerance of law enforcement agencies. He said, "When ever organized gambling takes place on a major scale, there is some corruption."

Foreign Trade Barriers Are Argued

By GEOFFREY GOULD
WASHINGTON (AP)—A lively dialogue over foreign trade policy—should trade barriers be lowered or not?—is spreading into the far corners of Washington. It presages a bitter legislative fight next year when the present trade law expires.

Holding up the protectionist or high tariff end of the dialogue at the moment is Rep. John Dent, D-Pa. His House subcommittee is holding a week of hearings generally aimed at airing the views of segments of industry which want more protection against foreign competition as a matter of survival.

The administration is masterminding the other side, pushing for liberalization of trade as a means of increasing the economic strength of the West.

The administration is gathering powerful allies, including top leaders of the AFL-CIO. The International Association of Machinists is pounding the drums in a three-day world trade conference, with lowered trade barriers as the keynote.

Undersecretary of State George W. Ball loosed a recent administration trial balloon in a speech repudiating protectionism, and pledging efforts "to open the doors and windows of our economy to the competition we must face in world markets." The speech reportedly had the prior approval of President Kennedy.

Dent's investigation is not all one-sided. Scheduled for today is Meyer Bernstein of the United Steelworkers, who is expected to urge trade liberalization. Dent generally supporting the administration's policy of freer world trade.

Another element in the argument is the House subcommittee on Foreign Economic Policy headed by Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., which has been issuing reports generally supporting the administration's policy of freer world trade.

his House Subcommittee on the Impact of Imports and Exports on American Employment.

But most of the witnesses set for this week represent industries which are fighting to at least hold the line on tariff protection, if not gain higher walls against imports of low-wage foreign products.

Suggests a Limitation of Cocktails
By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

DENVER (AP)—The cocktail hour, Dr. Clyde B. Stanfield said today, is here to stay.

But in spelling your day, it should be only a punctuation mark before dinner—an' nah uh woa! sentence.

The Denver psychiatrist suggested limiting it to two to three cocktails after the day's work, "to put in a punctuation mark before dinner, to relax and unwind."

He frowned on martinis at lunch "to get through the day," and on drinking after dinner to lubricate conversation or induce sleep; in short, using alcohol as a drug.

As a gag, he displayed to the American Mal Association his invention, "the drinking man's filter."

This contraption would limit the drinker to one swallow each 15 minutes and, through a timer device, not operate until half an hour before dinner.

He and other speakers examined medical aspects of various American habits.

Looking at the coffee habit, Dr. E. Chester Ridgway of Cody, Wyo., said Americans drink so much of it—100 billion cups a year he said—it's bound to produce some illness, in nervousness, irritability, insomnia, stomach upsets, speedier heart rate.

Looking at pets in the home, Dr. Francis T. Candlin, Denver veterinarian, said dogs and cats often reflect their owners' behavior, including anxieties. He suggested cooperation between physicians and veterinarians could give some insights into what ails humans, or their pets.

As for sex, no "sound scientific conclusions" can yet be drawn from various studies, said Dr. Bradford Murphrey of Denver.

FIRST DANCING CLASS

by Janet Henry

I led him with dragging feet
(His heart was on the football field),
And watched, from my parental seat,
Resentment that was unconcealed.

Then, slowly, he became aware
That this new world looked pretty good.
He straightened, smiled,
and smoothed his hair...
A dividend for motherhood!

HOURS TO KILL
BY URSULA CURTIS

THE STORY: Margaret is sure that the "cousin" who visited Mrs. Foale some time before was Philip. She learned this from the description of the cousin given by Miss Honeyman.

Chapter XV
Even if it had been Philip, that was no reason to stand here with her mid-section gone hollow, her hand as tight and still on the cradled receiver as though it had been fused there.

Almost unaware of what she was doing, she made herself a second drink and sat blankly down at the table with it, gazing fixedly at nothing.

No, not nothing; dim montages of Philip's face when she had first known him—bent toward hers at a cocktail party, waiting smilingly outside the apartment door, turned to her on the street, in restaurants, in countless places. Words went with the overlapping images, the things Philip had told her about himself in that first and often—regretted freedom with which people attracted to each other unroll their inner selves like maps for inspection.

He was all alone in the world except for a divorced aunt who spent such time, effort and money in looking half her age that she shunned such a tall mature relative as though he had been a mass of extra calories. Margaret had met her once, slim, sable-haired, hair a delicate silver-gold, on the arm of a handsome dark man outside the Plaza. When she and Philip had moved away after introductions, a fragment of the light voice had followed them: "...by marriage, of course. But isn't he enormous? ..."

In the course of tea at his apartment, Margaret had wormed a collection of photographs out of Philip, and in none of them had he worn a mustache.

How long did it take to grow a mustache? Of course, if you were in any kind of hurry, you could buy one.

The thought of Philip going out to buy a mustache, pricing them solemnly, trying them on, was so ludicrous as to be cheering. Margaret clung to her amusement, and it carried her safely through dinner, the washing of the few dishes, the inevitable wandering back to the library.

There it deserted her. The caching of the liquor bottles was now explained; a sorrowing widow and her ailing cousin would have to be careful of every overt move, and great numbers of empty rum-bottles would not do at all. The mustache had altered Philip's appearance on arrival, and the tale of the blood-pressure condition had kept him out of sight, except for a random glimpse like Miss Honeyman's. Obviously, anyone who went to that amount of trouble was anxious to avoid recognition—then, or at some future time.

It could be argued that if all this had taken place before his marriage to Cornelia, it was strictly his own concern. What had shaken Margaret so badly was not so much the fact that Philip had lied, but that he had lied so well, so smilingly, glancing around the living room on the night of her arrival and saying wryly, "Cozy, isn't it? But a stroke of luck for us that Mrs. Whatever-her-name-is decided to rent it."

And what about Isabel Foale, He. She hardly thought of him as a man at all, only as a pair of eyes under a big hat, a sinuous, insinuating
